

Visiting the Universal Studios in Hollywood are the finalists in the competition to find Miss Universe; and this was an occasion when the unknown girls of yesterday had the chance to meet the stars of to-day; famous screen favourites, like Lex Barker;

And Tony Curtis.

And Jeff Chandler. And then stars and top executives played hosts while the girls had lunch.

Next they were presented with the keys of the studios. They were told they could go anywhere they liked, as long as they didn't wake^{up} the script writers.

As a change from being in front of a camera ~~some of the stars~~ got behind one --- taking pictures of the girls who had already been chosen as the most beautiful of their home state. And here's the winner of the title --- Miss Miriam Stephenson; who worked her way up from being Miss Southern California and Miss America; and now she's Miss Universe.