

CIDER POURING CONTEST.

27/7/54.

In Northern Spain, a contest in pouring out cider, is part of the celebration of a local saint's day; points are lost if any of the liquid is spilled; and the experts pour, in the way best-calculated to put a head on it. ¹¹/~~6~~ In the case of a tie, uniformity of pouring decides the winner; and the best man with bottle and glass, receives the Cup. ⁶/~~2~~

And here's a demonstration of how to pour out, so as to save more time for drinking. ⁴/~~6~~

BAREFOOT WATER SKIER.

If anybody who's tried it thinks it's difficult to balance on a couple of water-skis --- see if it 's easier on one. It all ~~looks~~ ^{easy}, when you're as ~~expert~~ skilful as Chaflene Wellborn ~~of~~ ~~Florida~~. But easy or not --- when she gets up to forty miles an hour --- she does it without any skis at all; and that's impossible. ¹⁴/~~12~~

AUSTRALIAN WRESTLING.

The tom-toms were throbbing when Chief War Cloud met Big Chief Little Wolf in a heavyweight contest at Sydney Stadium. ⁵/~~2~~ ^{Little} but ~~War~~ ~~skis~~

^{wry} Cloud is so tough he doesn't notice if he's hit with anything less than a totem pole. ⁴/~~6~~

Then Little Wolf got tied up in the ropes ^{2-3 P} and War Cloud did a war dance. ³/~~2~~ this had no effect so he tried to beat the tom-tom on his tum-tum. ³/~~3~~

At the second attempt War Cloud went clean through the silver lining. ³/~~3~~

By this time, even the ref. began to dislike ~~him~~ ^{lots of them} ³/~~3~~

Then Big Chief Little Wolf decided it was time for the worm to turn. He put on the Indian Death Lock and they all went onto a pow-wow. ~~Tom-tom~~ Te-morrew rub wooden heads together --- make fire. ¹⁰/~~2~~ L
