VENETIAN FETE.

The town of Hythe in Kent helds its annual Venetian Fete on the Reyal Military Canal --- which was built a hundred and fifty years age as part of the defences against the threatened invasion by Nap eleon Buonaparte. And every year there's a historical flavour provided by such eld favourites from scheelreem studies as the little Princes in the Tewer. Incidentally, one of the little Princes of 1954 has just had a legacy of a real-life fortune.

13/8/54.

Among the floating tableaux one of the biggest successes was an eld paddle-boat called the Duchess of Hythe. And the show went on from strength to strength; culminating in a spectacle of sparkling magic with the coming of the board of the biggest successes was an

Another ingenieus fleat was an eld-fashioned weather-house xiin m which tells you if the weather is good bad which tells you if tells you if the weather is good bad which tells you if tells you if