

Free once more, and home on American soil, is Donald Dixon, a correspondent of the International News Service. After eighteen months of <sup>captivity</sup> ~~captivity~~ in Communist China he comes back to New York --- for happy reunion with his mother and father. ~~With his American~~ ~~Americans, he was captured by the Chinese while visiting off Hong Kong.~~ With him --- released at the same time --- is another newspaperman, Richard Applegate. Needless to say --- almost overcome at being home once more.

WEDDING.

There were ~~two~~ charming little bridesmaids attending a society wedding, at the country church of St Thomas of Canterbury --- at Woodbridge in Suffolk. The bride was Lady Anne-Louise Keppel, daughter of the Earl and Countess of Albemarle. The bridegroom ~~was~~ Captain Hamilton-Dalrymple of the Grenadier Guards.

BACHELORS AND SPINSTERS.

A parade through the streets led by a man with a ballen and a sad expression, marks the annual event which has made a little village in Germany world-famous. It is the World Congress of Bachelors and Spinsters, in Limburg. It's another example of the modern practice, of calling an ~~XXXX~~ international conference in the interests of mutual defence; but nobody expects it to result in a lasting peace.

U.S. WALKING RACE.

This was the start of the Thirty-Three Mile National Walking Championship in Baltimore, U.S.A. And for the benefit of those who ~~are~~ <sup>rethink</sup> of taking up this fascinating sport, our slow-motion camera demonstrates how to get to the front from behind. Any number can play. And if you're falling back, our quick-motion camera can help you to catch up. But nobody could catch up with last year's champion, Lee Shergren ~~from Brooklyn was the winner for the second year in succession.~~
