DIAMONDS. 29/10/54.

This is one of the finest of the world's collections of diamonds

--- in the office of Mr Harry Winston mf in New York. Now from the cutter's wheel comes a super-diamond worth a half a million dellars.

looking facts in the face,

A nice present for any girl. But/memorialization mentalization dellars;

very few girls will ever meet a man with a half a million dellars;

you're lucky if you meet a half a million men with a dellar.

BIBLE EXHIBITION.

At the British Museum in London, an archaeological exhibition

The treasures on show in this exhibition --- mostly from the Holy Land form --- have been recovered as the result of many years of patient and ankilimized exaction. They are objects which were in use in the times recorded in the Holy Bible. Some of them are several thousand years old. A brenze oil lamp from a town of the Old Testament and a necklace that may have adorned the neck of a Princess of the Canaanites, are to be seen among the many priceless relice.

BOXERS TRAIN.

former middleweight-champion Albert Finch. Now out of the ranks of the middleweights --- he is preparing to have a ga at the title for light-heaviss.

The man to meet Albert is title-helder Alex Buxtoh. He too is training in London --- in the Old Kent Read. As an essential part of working-up --- Alex is making life on a parting-part ers.

FREEDOM BALLOONS.

At a secret location in Germany, near the borders of Czecheslovakia, workers of an organisation known as the rusade for Freedom, send up messages into the sky carried by with balleons of all shapes and sizes. The prevailing wind, carries them into the statellite countries behind the Iron Wurtain. On the other side, the printed word is released --- designed to speed the freedom of Central and Eastern Europe.