HORSE RACE.

In Maryland, U.S.A., thoroughbreds from England, Ireland, and France, were matched against the best in America for the International Stakes. England was represented by the Queen's horse, Landau.

Coming down the straight to the finish, it's America's Fisherman in the lead --- No. 4 --- from France's Banassa --- No. 6 --- Landau is lying well back. Just before the post, Banassa made his challenge, but Fisherman kept out in front. And so the International Stakes, with its prize of fifty thousand dollars --- was won by America for the first time.
