

Peter Keenan of Glasgow --- hantamweight champion of Britain --- was defending his title against a local boy, George O'Neill, in the King's Hall, Belfast. It's Keenan in the dark trunks. ^

Keenan quickly established his superiority..... and in Round Three he sent O'Neill to the canvas. ^ But the bell intervened as soon as the count began. ~~stop~~

O'Neill put up a gallant show against a more experienced opponent; but as the rounds went by, he was getting the points piled up against him. ~~stop~~

In the last round, Keenan sent him down again. ~~stop~~

He got up; and the champion rushed in to clinch the affair with a knock-out. But --- once again --- it was the bell that settled the argument. ^ Peter Keenan kept his title --- and his belt. ~~stop~~

The big crowds were also out for a sporting event in the floodlight of world news, when the crack Honved eleven from Hungary met the Wolves. Wolves were the team in dark shorts. ^

First --- an attack by the home side. ~~stop~~

Now --- pressure from the team from Hungary --- and they were one up. ~~stop~~

Honved attacking again. In this first half it almost began to look like another of those pushovers --- even against the men that beat Spartak. ^

And here's a second goal in the first half --- from Honved. ~~stop~~

And every attack by the Wolves was beaten off. ~~stop~~

But watch the home side, in this second half, regain the terrific form that punished the men from Moscow. ~~stop~~ Four minutes after the interval Johnny Hancock was fouled; and Honved paid the penalty. ~~stop~~

Then Swinbourne scored --- to put Wolves on equal terms..... 2 - all. ~~stop~~

Despite the mud, Wolves had now reached their peak.... and before the finish Swinbourne scored again. ~~stop~~ Wolves - 3 ----- Honved - 2. ~~stop~~
