

PASSING OUT AT COSFORD.

14/1/55.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Basil Embry, Commander of the Allied Air Forces in Central Europe, inspected the parade, at the Passing Out Review of the Royal Air Force School of Technical Training at Cosford. Parade Commander was Sergeant Boy Entrant Mitchell; and proudest of all the visitors was his mother. There are two thousand five hundred boys at Cosford; and this important inspection parade was entirely under the boys' control. On passing out successfully, they are posted to the Royal Air Force; and from there --- the sky's the limit.
