

At the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst, on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen, Admiral the Earl Mountbatten of Burma took what is now called the Sovereign's Parade. One of the cadets among eight hundred on this occasion was His Royal Highness the Duke of Kent. ^{Then} ~~the~~ the parade marched past --- first, in slow time.

Then --- in quick time

The Sword of Honour for the best Officer Cadet of the term was presented to Senior Under-Officer P.L. Dell. In his ~~px~~ speech, Earl Mountbatten spoke of the ~~unxi~~ unity of the British Commonwealth.

Then the Colours were escorted up the steps of the Grand Entrance; with the Senior Cadets who have paraded for the last time before receiving their commission; and the parade ~~xxxxx~~ ended with the traditional ride by the Adjutant.
