

There was a big crowd at the Nottingham Ice Stadium looking for a heavyweight good enough to meet Don Cockell --- and when Jack Gardner was facing Johnny Williams they saw him. It's Gardner with the white stripe on his trunks.... and it's Gardner with the new look of the killer.

In Round Two Williams took a knock down.

And he was saved by the bell.

Williams was certainly game; --- and he had need of all his courage against this kind of punishment in Round Three and Round Four.

Round 5 was destined to end it; at fifteen stone and a half, Gardner was a heavier man --- and he was hitting heavy.

Gallant Johnny Williams went down again in this Fifth Round.

He got up; and Gardner ^{maneuvered to face} had him where he wanted ^{him} for the K.O.

So Gardner won --- and became a worthy challenger for Don ~~Cockell~~ Cockell's Crown.
