

Forty eight leading fashion houses showed ~~their~~ spring and summer collections at the Albert Hall in London; ~~and in~~ ⁱⁿ recognition of the growing popularity of the scooter habit, ~~there~~ was a skirt specially designed for it. Zips back and front change a slim, straight walking-skirt, into an apron-fronted style for scooting.

Turning to ~~frank~~ swimsuits, ~~as~~ ~~the~~ ~~model~~ ~~is~~ ~~in~~ ~~elastic~~ ~~grosgrain~~. ~~with~~ ~~the~~ ~~same~~ ~~material~~. And Beverly Brook --- who used to be a model before she became an actress --- particularly liked the hat.

It's unusual to meet a gendarme at a fashion show in London, but this one was in attendance on ^a team of visiting French models, who have come to show continental designs. Here is a forecast of what makes a gendarme look.

It sounds incredible, but there were no fewer than fourteen thousand off-the-peg garments at this Albert Hall display; and they will be in the shops about the time you're wishing you weren't so broke after Christmas. But the buyers at the display had plenty of money --- and there were twelve thousand of them looking around for something to spend it on.

Now --- to a hotel in Kensington for ^a selection of styles from the Teenage Fashion Group. Chosen at random are a striped Schreiner cotton dress, and another wild flower cotton with nylon jacket. A teenager is a girl who is so young she has to drink her vodka out of a bottle.

And now we're getting even younger still. The models at a fashion show in Munich were little girls of the age that thinks anyone over twelve is washed up.

All the ^{GIRLS} ~~models~~ thought it was ^{LOVELY} ~~just~~ --- but little Fritz wished he was the heck out of it.
