

FALL OF A FORTRESS.

Picture. 1- Cuba again steeped itself in bloodshed. The A.B.--
--G. rebels party pits--
--itself against the loyal forces--
--of President--
--Grau san Martin's Government. This fort,--
--the rebels--
--stronghold is just being heavily attacked by loyal troops.
The revolutionaries are resisting--
--to their utmost. But defeat--
--seems imminent and surrender follows a damaging bombardment.

The Government soldiers have now taken possession--
--and are quickly rounding up the rebels. The cost--
--of this victory is--
--at least two-hundred killed. The loyal--
--troops' general appears to be glad it's over.

A court-martial is held almost immediately and the -- --rebellious fighters brought-- --before it. Life is cheap in-- --a revolution of this kind, and the fate of most--
--of these prisoners will be--
--to face a firing party.

Some look death in the face with a sneer. Others are fear haunted, as well they may be. Dying for a twisted point of view. It seems a pity !
